

GrondTaal

The Translation Bureau with a Difference.

What is GrondTaal?

GrondTaal (Du. Grondtaal = original language OR "soil talk") translates texts. But 'translation' can mean many things. At GrondTaal we aim for translations that are more than merely correct: they sound like they were written in the native language they have been transformed into.

GrondTaal possesses extensive and international experience of all aspects of language and translation. But we offer specific expertise in:

- ⌘ archaeology
- ⌘ anthropology
- ⌘ history
- ⌘ (classical) music

GrondTaal is owned by Gerre van der Kleij, MA. The company is based in the pleasant medieval town of Zutphen, the Netherlands.

What can GrondTaal offer you?

We at GrondTaal can help you if:

- ⌘ you need a translation from English or Danish into fluent and correct Dutch;
- ⌘ you want an English or Danish text to be translated and then rewritten to suit your Dutch target audience;
- ⌘ you want an existing translation into Dutch to be corrected and/or revised.
- ⌘ you need an accurate English translation of a Dutch archaeological research paper.

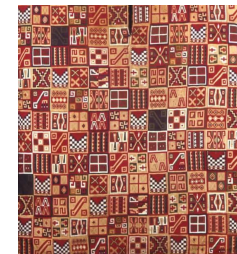

GrondTaal charges reasonable rates and works with tailor made estimates and project proposals to suit your specific needs. Reliability and quality are our main concerns. You can find our Code of Practice on our website.

We are especially interested in publications for the general public, but we will also gladly assist professionals.

Books, websites, brochures, scientific papers, texts for exhibitions or CD-booklets: GrondTaal can help you with it!
